MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR AND CO-CHAIR

South Asians for Human Rights (SAHR) is pleased to present its annual report on the initiatives taken in 2011 to promote and protect human rights in the region.

Under the key programme area of State, Democracy and Citizens' Participation, SAHR continued monitoring the legislatures of Bangladesh, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka and engaged with parliamentarians and civil society via national consultations under the Parliament Watch programme. Covering both the areas of inclusive electoral process, and the rights of minorities, SAHR also produced reports on the situation of minorities in relation to elections.

Under the area of Impunity and conflict, in response to the existence of draconian anti-terrorism laws in the region, SAHR held a regional workshop, bringing together experts to draft a set of guidelines for States to follow when carrying out counter-terrorism measures, in order to protect human rights.

Finally the area of Displacement covered national consultations which focused on seeking ways to operationalise the UN Guiding Principles on Displacement, in order to ensure the promotion and protection of the rights of displaced people.

SAHR also continued with its annual activities including press statements, news alerts and posting of judicial decisions on the abuse of power and breach of fundamental rights, to the SAHR website. Through 2011, SAHR continued to monitor and report the status of minorities in South Asia.

The organisation is always grateful to all the members who have worked with us to reach a common goal and to our donor partners for their continued funding support which has enabled us to move forward on the promotion of human rights and democratic governance.

We commend the Secretariat and the Chapter Coordinators for having worked diligently in supporting the national bureaus to carry out SAHR activities.

SAHR AT A GLANCE

South Asians for Human Rights (SAHR) is a democratic regional network of human rights defenders with a large membership base of individuals and organisations committed to promotion and protection of human rights at both national and regional levels.

VISION: A South Asian region that guarantees political, economic, social and cultural conditions for all peoples to realize their rights and live in dignity, justice and peace.

PURPOSE: To promote and defend the human rights of all peoples in South Asia in the political, economic, social and cultural spheres, at both the regional and national levels, by activating regional responses through regional instruments, monitoring mechanisms, legal frameworks, policies and practices.

Building on the mandate of the Neemrana Declaration, SAHR's vision captures the importance of protecting and preserving the rights of all citizens in the region. Its objectives can be summarized as seeking to:

- Foster the concept of multiple South Asian identities by enabling citizens to realise their aspirations for peace, democracy, secularism, justice, and human security, while promoting pluralism in approaches towards social, political, economic and cultural development of different communities based on ethnicity, language, religion, and gender.
- Contribute to the realisation of a participatory democracy, by enabling citizens to be involved in decision making and by strengthening regional responses, regional instruments, monitoring human rights violations, reviewing laws, policies and practices that have an adverse impact on human rights; and conducting campaigns and programmes on issues of major concern in the region.
- Advocate for just and responsive states to take initiatives for peace and cooperation that will enable citizens to benefit from the sharing of resources, and build a just society based on non-discrimination.

SAHR's strength and legitimacy comes from its democratic structure and broad-based membership of recognised human rights defenders in the region. SAHR members, both institutional and individual, form the network's general body which currently consists of members from eight South Asian countries and a twenty member elected bureau functioning as the organisation's executive body.

PROGRAMMES

SAHR's three key programme areas for 2009-2012 were developed in line with the organisation's vision, goal, and purpose.

KEY PROGRAMME AREA 1: STATE, DEMOCRACY AND CITIZENS' PARTICIPATION

Objective: to ensure that the power exercised through State structures and political processes is inclusive, transparent and accountable.

1. PARLIAMENT WATCH

Further to the comparative study on the best parliamentary practices in the region and the right to transparent governance guidelines, SAHR planned to take these guidelines forward by undertaking a Parliamentary Watch programme. The programme began in March 2010 with the objective of monitoring and assessing the legislature's performance on transparency, accountability and human rights sensitivity. The study, which has been implemented in Bangladesh, India, Maldives, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka, produces regular reports focusing on how existing laws and regulations undermine democracy and transparent governance, and how they deviate from proposed SAHR guidelines, as well as the basic principles of good governance and accountability. The study also identifies and records the level of parliament's commitment to introducing legislation pertaining to governance and human rights and also its responsiveness to human rights concerns.

To advocate its findings, SAHR has engaged with parliamentarians, members of civil society organisations, the media, and other relevant stakeholders on different occasions. In 2011 such engagement took the form of a national consultation in Nepal. The forum, "Making Parliament Accountable and Human Rights Responsive", held in Kathmandu in December 2011, was attended by current and former politicians, civil society leaders and members of the media. Such guests included the Honourable Subhash Chandra Nembang as Chief Guest, former home minister Honourable Bhim Rawal, former Foreign Minister Honourable Upendra Yadav, Mr. Padma Ratna Tuladhar and Mr. Yubraj Ghimire.

The aim of the national consultation was to share the findings of the Parliament Watch study being conducted by a partner organization for SAHR, and to invoke a discussion among parliamentarians, civil society leaders, media and academicians alike about the necessity and importance of making the parliament accountable and responsive to human rights. The program was divided into three sessions in which Parliamentarian's Role, Civil Society and Citizen's Role and Media's Role in making transparent and accountable parliament was voiced. Many SAHR members, representatives of human rights organizations, and students also participated in this program.

In 2012 SAHR plans to hold national consultations in Bangladesh, India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. Once these national consultations have been held, the findings and recommendations from the series of consultations including SAHR's findings in each country will be consolidated and published, and distributed to the various South Asian parliaments. This document is to be used for advocacy purposes in the future.

2. PROMOTION OF INCLUSIVE ELECTORAL PROCESS IN SOUTH ASIA

SAHR has been preparing reports on the situation of minorities in relation to the electoral process in Bangladesh, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. The reports examine the situation in relation to elections, of women, religious minorities, IDPs and other marginalized groups and focus on how these groups are affected by electoral laws and practices, and attempts or voices raised for and against their inclusion. The country reports will be compiled as a regional publication and used for advocacy purposes.

In 2011 the Sri Lanka and Bangladesh reports were completed and finalised, joining the Pakistan report which was completed last year. The Nepal report is currently being drafted, the Indian version of the report is currently under review and will be finalised in 2012.

In 2012 SAHR also plans to host a regional consultation bringing together representatives of political parties from throughout South Asia on the topic of transparency and the internal democracy of political parties.

3. THE REGIONAL MULTIALOGUE & REGIONAL CONSULTATION OF CITIZENS VOICES 2010

Following on from the South Asian Multilogue of eminent persons titled "Challenges to Peace and Prospects for Cooperation" held in New Delhi in 2010, SAHR convened a follow-up meeting in April 2011 with human rights activists from around the region to discuss how to best utilize and proceed with the recommendations made at the Regional Multilogue. The outcome of these discussions will be used for both advocacy and to set the tone for SAHR's future work.

4. PUBLICATION AND SHARING OF RELEVANT JUDICIAL DECISIONS IN THE REGION

The SAHR website hosts this programme, with relevant judgments on fundamental rights from the region uploaded as they are received. The judgements are categorised into the specific areas of abuse of power by the executive, minority rights, torture, and electoral abuses, to name a few. The countries which the programme covers are Bangladesh, India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka.

Through creating this database of reported fundamental rights judgements SAHR intends to better equip litigants suing to have their rights enforced, to fight their own cases

5. REPORTING ON THE STATUS OF MINORITIES

In 2011 SAHR continued to produce country reports on the status of minorities in the South Asian region. These reports highlight the main issues that face minorities and provide details on how the political systems, whether democratic or authoritarian, have promoted conditions for majoritarian domination and exclusion of others.

The reports, once finalised, will be shared with partner organisations, and also will be uploaded to the SAHR website. They can be accessed here

KEY PROGRAMME AREA 2: IMPUNITY AND CONFLICT

Objective: to reduce the incidence of conflict and impunity through promoting the need for greater understanding and dialogue on pluralism and inclusive democracy, and to ensure justice to the victims through greater accountability of state actors.

1. EMERGENCY REGULATIONS AND SECURITY LAWS

SAHR commissioned background papers on the state of emergency laws, and their extent and effects, in Bangladesh, India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. These papers provided information on the historical context of emergency proclamations, the constitutional safeguards against the abuse of such laws, actions the courts have taken or attempted to take against them, and the human rights cost of these laws.

The next step for this programme was to hold a regional workshop, bringing together experts on the subject from throughout the region, to develop a set of guidelines that States should adhere to in their counter-terrorism efforts, in an effort to maintain respect for human rights. The “SAHR regional workshop on human rights and counter-terrorism measures in South Asia, to develop guidelines for States to observe when carrying out counter-terrorism measures”, was held in Kathmandu, Nepal on the 17th and 18th September 2011.

The aforementioned background papers formed the basis for the first session, where country presentations and perspectives on anti-terror laws were made. Presentations were also made for Afghanistan, Maldives and Nepal. A session deliberating areas that the guidelines should cover followed, before the majority of the workshop focused on actually drafting and adopting the guidelines.

The draft guidelines focused on various concerns relating to the abuse of emergency laws, including, derogation from international human rights law, the necessity for judicial review and fundamental rights that should not be derogated from.

These guidelines are currently being finalised, and once this is done, they will form a compilation along with other relevant material that SAHR has produced in this programme area, which can then be utilised for advocacy purposes.

2. STUDY ON CUSTODIAL TORTURE IN SOUTH ASIA

With the existence of draconian anti-terrorism laws which allow State forces to act with impunity, and the increase in militarization in the region, SAHR’s research on Custodial Torture remains relevant today. The report, which covers Afghanistan, Bangladesh, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka, draws upon the incidence of custodial torture by law enforcement agencies as well as examining the sources of their impunity in the laws and practices in each country. This compilation sets each nation within its constitutional history, and explores in each case; international commitments, legal provisions, responses of courts and other institutions, and lists case studies that show the gap between the norm and practice, and is aimed at facilitating an effective advocacy against custodial torture. It concludes with a campaign plan suggesting measures for legislative, administrative, institutional reforms which will guide SAHR's future work to create public awareness of such violations, to raise public voices against impunity and to advocate for changes in laws, policies and methods of law enforcement. The report, authored by Nitya Ramakrishnan, is expected to be published in 2012 by SAGE Publications, India.

KEY PROGRAMME AREA 3: DISPLACEMENT

Objective: to secure the rights of displaced peoples ensuring their dignity and proper care, maintenance, rehabilitation and their right to secure a sustainable return to their original homes.

In 2011 SAHR commissioned background papers on the situation of IDPs in Bangladesh, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka, and followed this up with national consultations on IDPs in Pakistan and Sri Lanka, while similar consultations in the rest of the countries will follow in 2012.

In Sri Lanka, the consultation involved about 30 people from both NGOs and INGOs. All of the invitees had some experience working in the field of displacement, and efforts were made to involve a wide range of experts in order to have the concerns of the various populations they deal with, heard at this consultation. The consultation's focus was to find means of operationalising the United Nations Guiding Principles on Displacement (Deng Principles), and this was on the final session in the agenda. The prior sessions included one where presentations were made on four different IDP populations within Sri Lanka, with the emphasis being that they face unique challenges and as such require unique solutions. Preceding this were presentations from the author of the background paper on IDPs in Sri Lanka, as well as a couple of presentations on providing humanitarian assistance in shrinking humanitarian space, and the way forward from early recovery.

The consultation in Pakistan, titled "Consultation on Durable Solutions for Internally Displaced Persons in the Context of Shrinking Humanitarian Space", was held in on 13 December. Politicians, lawyers, journalists and human rights activists comprised the 20 participants. Following an introduction to SAHR's work on IDPs, and a summary of the UN guiding principles on displacement, presentations were made on the SAHR background paper on IDPs in Pakistan, the issues IDPs currently face there, as well as a review of past responses from the humanitarian community and the government. Finally a session was held on suggestions to operationalise the Deng Principles in Pakistan. Key recommendations included the formation of a working group, to monitor legislation and policy decisions on IDPs, and assess if they are in line with the guiding principles, identification of key authorities to focus responsibility and accountability.

The consultation allowed an exchange of experiences between grassroots activists and INGO personnel on the problems and challenges faced, solutions that have worked, and potential solutions to adopt in future. The report on the consultation in Pakistan has been completed, and the Sri Lankan report is expected to be finalised in early 2012. SAHR's next step for this programme is to publish a compilation of the findings and recommendations from the national consultations, with a focus on regional trends and ways to operationalise the Deng Principles.

SAHR ACTIVITIES

1. Citizen's Charter

The SAARC Charter for Democracy was studied at the Regional Consultation in Kathmandu in 2010 and found to be lacking in transparency, and undemocratic in nature.

Subsequently, the SAHR Bangladesh Chapter organized a national consultation on the proposed draft of the "SAARC Democracy Charter: Citizens' Initiative" in April 2011. The draft, presented by Imtiaz Ahmed, a professor of International Relations at Dhaka University, consists of 10 sections and 50 articles, focusing mainly on the obligations of the SAARC member states in nurturing democratic institutions, guaranteeing the rights of the citizens, strengthening the rule of law, peace and justice, and include consolidating political, economic and social governance for the welfare and happiness of the people of this region. The consultation was attended by diplomats, academics and human rights activists from Bangladesh.

2. RTI Conference, Shillong

SAHR attended an RTI conference in Shillong, India in March 2011. The conference was attended by civil society members and government officials from across the country. The product of the conference was the 12 point declaration that aimed to define procedures and rules that ensure that information about political parties, trade unions and NGOs can be easily accessed.

ADVOCACY CAMPAIGNS

1. Press Statements

In 2011 SAHR issued press releases, memorandums to relevant authorities and alerts on its website to flag issues illustrating human rights violations that prompted collective action at varying levels, national, regional and international.

A few of the statements prepared by SAHR are

- SAHR Statement on the role of women at the Bonn Conference on Afghanistan
- Statement Addressed to the SAARC Heads of State by Members of SAHR on the occasion of the SAARC Summit Meeting at Addu – Maldives
- SAHR Condemns the Arrest of Anna Hazare and Other Activists
- Indian and Pakistan Citizens Condemn Serial Bombs in Mumbai
- SAHR Expresses Grave Concern at the Government's Opposition to the Right to Information Bill
- SAHR express concern over the government's statements on the shooting of Limon Hossain
- Statement Issued by SAHR on International Women's Day 2011
- SAHR Statement Condemning the Assassination of Pakistan's Federal Minister for Minorities

The full collection of SAHR statements can be found on the website.

2. SAHR Newsletter

The 2011 SAHR Newsletter opens with an article written by Ms Dalia Pervin, an Assistant Professor at the University of Dhaka, who wrote about anti-terror laws in Bangladesh. Further to this, SAHR activities held throughout the year, including the Nepal Parliament Watch national forum, the Consultations on IDPs in Sri Lanka and Pakistan, and the regional workshop on emergency regulations and security laws. The newsletter seeks to keep the members, and other relevant organisations or individuals involved in human rights work, informed on violations and human rights issues in the region, and the role of SAHR and the work carried out by the organization. The full range of SAHR newsletters can be accessed here on the SAHR website

South Asians for Human Rights (SAHR)

1. Principle Accounting Policies*1.1 Basis of Accounting

The financial statements have been prepared in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and accounting standards laid down by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Sri Lanka which have been applied consistently on a historical cost basis, with no adjustments being made for inflationary factors affecting the financial statements.

Previous year figures and phrases have been re-arranged wherever necessary to conform to the current presentation.

2. Assets & the Basis of Their Valuation*2.1 Property, Plant & Equipment

The Property, Plant & Equipment are stated at cost of Acquisition / Transfers less depreciation. Assets received as donations during the year have been capitalized at cost determined by the association and corresponding figures are shown in the fund account created for the purpose.

Depreciation

Provision for depreciation is calculated by using a straight - line method on the cost of valuation of all property, plant & equipment in order to write off such amounts over the estimated useful economic life of such assets, from the time the assets became available for use.

The estimated useful lives of assets are as follows.

Office Equipment	Over 4 Years
Furniture & Fittings	Over 4 Years
Computers	Over 4 Years
Computer Software	Over 4 Years

3. Grants

Grants on foreign funds are recognized on cash basis.

4. Expenditure Recognition

All Expenditure incurred during the year has been charged to the statement of income & expenditure on accrual basis.

5. Foreign Currency Transaction

All foreign currency transactions are converted in to Sri Lanka Rupees at the rate of exchange prevailing at the time the transactions were effected.

All monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies have been translated into local currencies, at the rate of exchange ruling at the balance sheet date while all non monetary items are reported at the rate prevailing at the time transitions were effected.

The exchange differences arising there from have been dealt with in the statement of income & expenditure statement.

6. Interest Income

Interest Income on fixed deposits and savings account is recognized on cash basis.
